WORK ON STEMMERY NEARS COMPLETION

Repair work on the Xenia Stemmy, branch factory of the American Car Company is nearing completion. Dilapidated walls have been torn down and new ones rebuilt, while new tile floors have been laid in the new store building. Work will probably be finished in two weeks although the stemmy itself will not be moved back into the main building from the new warehouse by October 1 as was at first thought.

The cost of the project will probably run into five figures as most of the building had to be repaired. Presently, the stemmy consists of installing a new heating system to replace the old and also a new lighting system.

Work was started by McCurran Brothers, local contractors, about two months ago.

UTOIST HURT AS COUPE OVERTURNS

Frank Shroades, near Cedarville, suffered cuts about his head, on the arm and leg, when the Ford coupe was driving left the road and overturned on the Columbus Pike, near Cedarville, Sunday night about 10 o'clock.

Shroades was driving from South Charleston to Cedarville when his car skidded on the wet pike. The machine was slightly damaged, the front wheel torn off. Shroades' injuries are not thought serious.

TURN BACK CLOCKS ONE HOUR SUNDAY

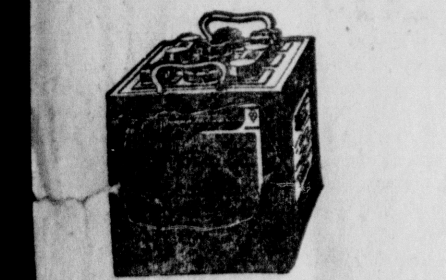

Sunday morning, September 28, at 1 o'clock, Daylight Saving time will be out of existence, clocks will be turned back exactly one hour and the time will be standard throughout the county.

Sunday will be shorter than ever by an hour which means that the sun will set between 4:30 and 5 o'clock. The last time which usually prevails in Xenia and other cities during long summer months, has proven popular as it gives an hour more daylight, theoretically, although there is change in the number of hour each day.

Bandit Kills Sheriff.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 23.—Bandits led Sheriff Garrett Groomer of Benton county when he made an effort to capture four or five members of a robber band. The sheriff, being armed with the Missouri Pacific station at Warsaw had been ransacked, tried out in quest of the thieves. He found them and when he demanded their surrender one of them fired a fatal shot. All escaped.

ODISH MITZI—Adelaide Makes Some Last Minute Purchases By Jay V. Jay

They are still in Paris, Harry and Adelaide, using up the tailend of their honeymoon. They are sailing tomorrow and Adelaide is telling Harry that she has just a few little things to buy for Mitzi. Adelaide is wearing a tight fitting dress of wool broche. The collar and stock suggests the Empire mode.

Adelaide couldn't resist the temptation to stop at some of the dress makers on the Rue de Rivoli. This Kasha dress has a beautiful cape with a fitted yoke. The brilliant wool embroidery is the only trimming. If only Mitzi could see it. (And Harry waits impatiently.)

Adelaide is entranced. And why not? The model on the left has a high bodice effect with silver recalling the Empire style. It is of white satin with silver braid. The braid gives the effect of making a flare in the front of the skirt. The gorgeous ermine wrap is reversible. (And Harry waits anxiously.)

And here is poor Harry, the picture of a deserted bridegroom in Paris. What could have befallen Adelaide. Is she buying all of Paris for Mitzi? Which makes him wonder how much she is buying. (And Harry waits wrathfully.)

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DETERMINED TO HAVE ANOTHER DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

The exact phraseology of the protocol on arbitration and security has virtually been agreed upon by the disarmament submission of the League of Nations. So confident do the leading statesmen feel it will be recalled that the so-called "Big Twelve" of the League Assembly decided today to recommend the convocation of a great international conference on the reduction of armaments in Geneva on June 15, 1925.

The United States and all other countries not members of the League will be invited to participate in the conference. As soon as the League's Assembly ratifies the protocol the League experts will buckle down to the work of preparing the program for the conference, which must be forwarded to all Governments at least two months before the time set for the opening session.

The text of the protocol will be whipped into final shape and probably will be presented to the assembly next Wednesday, allowing for two days' discussion before the full Disarmament Commission. The present plans are that fifteen States must ratify the protocol before the arms conference can actually be held. Several of these states, probably three or four of them, must have representatives on the League Council, but the question regarding the number necessary for ratification has not yet been determined.

The "Big Twelve," the name given to the group of leaders handling the disarmament discussion, are proceeding on the theory that the necessary ratification will be obtained. Hence their determination to strike out boldly and fix a definite date for an arms conference, which, of course, will be postponed if the number of ratifications is insufficient.

THE FOLLY OF A QUICKSAND FOUNDATION

When a house is reared, each brick laid, each nail driven, each rafter set in place finds its position on the basis of all that was done up to that moment. There must be a solid underpinning that the superstructure may be substantial. It is impossible to derive a rock-bottom stability from a quicksand foundation.

The structure of society depends on the performance of each man in his place through the generations. Age builds on age; and as we come on the scene we inherit the fruit of the toil and travail of civilized mankind before us. In our turn we are bound to leave "on going" hence some immemorial thing." All we can do is to live our lives as well as we know how to live them and leave the world with the Master-Builder whom the stars obey.

A good name, like the inferior fortune that is money, is a matter of accretion. The good neighbor and useful citizen is known today by what he has been consistently for many years. In rare instances which headlines seldom fail to emphasize, the pillar of church and state topples suddenly to ruin; and there is grief, with general amazement. When we see such a collapse we must remember the infinitely small proportion measured with the number of those who continue to justify the affectionate general confidence.

That public opinion is worth ceaseless effort to acquire; and it is better to upbuild such a reputation than to rear the most palatial of the houses made with hands.

THE FAR EAST CHESS BOARD

Japan is "more interested"—technically speaking—than any other great Power in what goes on in China. All have been compelled in one way or another, to admit this fact, and such an admission means a great deal in international politics. Even though the Washington Treaties brought about the cancellation of the Lansing-Ishii agreement, which asserted Japan's "special interest" in Manchuria, Japan at Washington, was tacitly allowed to retain a free hand in Manchuria. Now China is in civil conflict; Chang, of Manchuria, is about to make a drive on Peking and the Japanese Government is allowing Chang transportation for his troops over a Japanese-controlled railway. But the matter of Japan's interest is not likely to end here. A committee of the strongest party in the House of Peers has decided that, if Chang is defeated, Japan must take action in China. This decision shows which way the political wind is veering and indicates the determination of Japan to gain control of the Peking Government which a victory by Chang would mean. Surprising moves may soon be expected on the chessboard of the Far East.

"CONSISTENCY, THOU ART A JEWEL"

For years Senator LaFollette has crusaded against monopolies and denounced political dictators, party machines and convention steam rollers. In this campaign, however, he runs a one-man show. He sounded the tocsin to the faithful and he summoned them at Cleveland in July. He named himself for President and he gave himself an ovation. He seems to be running his own campaign. As a political dictator, this generation has never seen his equal. Under his program Congress would monopolize the governing powers of the Nation. Whatever else may trouble the Senator, consistency never bothers him.

Said the voice speaking low,

Your work you performed
In a suitable way,
But you raved and you stormed
At a youngster today.

You were cruelly curt,
And a girl hung her head,
She went away hurt
By the things that you said.

If you succeeded as well?

"I BELIEVE THIS IS OUR DANCE."

1904-Twenty Years Ago-1924

The Graves-Morton Comic Opera Company which was to appear here in "Dorothy" on next Tuesday night under the auspices of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, will not hold the boards at the Xenia theatre on that night, as information has since been received that the show is not such as had been represented.

The drill at the oil well on the Cleman's farm near Cedarville has reached a depth of 1900 feet and much trouble is being encountered by the water that has been found. There is about 1,000 feet of water in the well.

Xenia is to have a new physician in the person of Dr. Grube, of Grape Grove, who expects to locate here within a short time.

At a meeting of the football team of the high school yesterday afternoon after school, it was decided not to rent their field to non-association teams. The question had been left open by the Athletic Board, and referred to the decision of the football players.

The Fern Cliff Dancing Club has issued invitations for a dance to be given at the Neff grounds on September 29.

ever, the dents are places where pieces of the wood are broken out, the only thing you can do is to fill the smaller cavities with stick-shellac of the same color. (You must hire a cabinet maker to fit pieces of new wood into the larger ones.)

Answered: "I do try to keep my house new-looking, but my maid has just begun to mar the woodwork of the front door around the brass door-plate, when she polishes the plate. What can be done?"

Answer: To protect the woodwork surrounding a door-plate, have a tin-smith cut you a piece of tin the exact size of the plate and slip this over the plate while cleaning. Or you could use heavy cardboard instead of the tin, but cardboard would have to be removed frequently where as the tin would last indefinitely.

Inexperienced: "How are fruit stains removed from one's hands?"

Answer: Moisten cornmeal with vinegar and rub this on the stains. Or else grease your hands with lard and then wash with soap and water.

Answer: Saturate with turpentine, rub the hands, then sponge with either chloroform or alcohol. Wash as usual.

Inquirer: "How can I kill wasps in my attic?"

Answer: To destroy wasps place on the attic beams, or on window sills or shelves, saucers of water containing one teaspoon each of sugar and formalin (formalin is a POISON, so do not leave it where children or pets can get at it). The wasps will eat the mixture and die.

Old Housekeeper: "There are some terrible dents in my woodwork, due to renting the house to a family with children. What can be done?"

Answer: The dents can be overcome if they are the kind which come from a blow, leaving the fibres intact. In this case, if the surface is solid, not veneered, cover the dent with small pieces of blotting paper dipped in hot water and apply the tip of a heated poker to the topmost piece of paper; repeat as often as necessary to cause the compressed fibres to swell to their former dimensions. Today's Talks

KEEP GOING

A lady called upon me in my office today to present a business proposition. I listened to her intelligent talk and became interested in her story.

When she had finished her business talk she told me much of her philosophy of living. She was all smiles. She had few wrinkles in her face. Her hair was hardly touched with grey.

"How old do you think I am?" she asked. "Not a day over 50," I replied—for it is always a mark of intelligence to hit just a little low when it comes to a lady's age. "I am in my 77th year," she replied. "I am an old friend of Senator Depew's," she assured me, and went on to say that the Senator had said that he owed his remarkable youth at 90 to the fact that he had kept busy. "Keep Going," he gave as his motto for a long life and a happy one.

What a great motto this is! Keep going.

An active life is always a useful life. Even a dumb machine begins to rust and fall to pieces when it is not given over to use.

Keep going and you will grow old by staying young, strange as that may sound. For, after all, youth is a state of mind. The outward covering of the body counts for little so long as the mind stays healthy and full of that appreciation that welcomes the coming of new springs from year to year.

I have noted that "retired" men do not seem to live very long after they give up their activities and duties of business life.

The antidote for sudden failure in business is to—Keep Going. And when disappointment comes upon you unawares it is not well to sit and despair, but to stand up, lift your chin and—Keep Going!

Be Warmer this winter at Lower Cost

A house that is well insulated is warmer in winter, cooler in summer, more comfortable to live in at all times.

It also costs much less to heat.

For both economy and comfort, insulate your house with Sheetrock, the fireproof wallboard. Sheetrock is a natural insulator. It is made from gypsum rock—pure gypsum cast in sheets—and it is a perfect non-conductor of heat and cold.

It costs little to buy and to build with, and nothing at all to maintain.

Sheetrock makes solid, permanent walls and ceilings, smooth-surfaced, tight-jointed, non-warpage and fireproof. It comes all ready for use—just nail it to the joists or studding. It takes any decoration—particularly beautiful effects with Textone, The Sheetrock Decorator. Sold by your dealer in lumber or builders' supplies. Made only by the United States Gypsum Company.

STOVE TO BE GIVEN AWAY DURING WEEK OF COOKING SCHOOL

The attractive all-white porcelain Quick Meal gas range being displayed in the windows of the Adair Furniture Store will be the possession of some fortunate Xenia householder within the coming week.

As a feature of the Gazette and the Republican Home-Makers' Cooking School, being conducted September 29 and 30, and October 1 and 2, the Adair company is giving the range away to the owner of a gas range for the last ten years or more who first guesses the correct temperature of the oven of the stove.

The stove is equipped with a Loran oven heat regulator and the temperature will be set and the regulator sealed up for correct guesses. The first gas stove owner of ten years vintage who first gives the correct temperature will be awarded the stove.

Other features of the stove, which is practically all-white porcelain, is the side oven, the Loran heat regulator, automatic lighter and dust-proof oven.

Those who wish to guess the temperature of the oven will be permitted to enter the Adair store window and feel the heat of the stove oven. A record will be kept of the guesses.

HUGHES WILL OPEN DRIVE AT MARION

Columbus, Sept. 22.—Don V. Parker, in charge of the speakers' bureau at Republican state headquarters here, announced that Secretary of State Hughes is to be the principal speaker at the formal opening of the Republican-state campaign Saturday at Marion. Parker returned to this city after a hurried trip to national headquarters at Chicago to arrange for the speakers at Marion and for others who are to stump Ohio during the campaign.

This will be the first trip of Secretary Hughes into the state in the interests of the party. Candidates on the state ticket also will be present and will be introduced formally.

The tentative list of Republican speakers selected to tour the state until the election has been completed through the co-operation of the national men and women's speakers' bureaus, Parker said, but confirmation must precede their announcement.

The FarQuar System goes farther than any other furnace to make friends. It not only heats every room thoroughly, but does it with fresh air! It ventilates the home without flooding the rooms with dust, dirt, smoke, gases and fire poisons. Every room is evenly heated, no hot and cold spots and no drafts along the floor.

And if you should leave the furnace wide open after firing, the Automatic Control will close the doors and drafts and open the check, bringing the fire under complete control long before there's any danger from over-heat.

pleased with the announcement of "The Home-makers School" to be held at McKinley School Auditorium, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 29 and 30 and October 1 and 2, under the auspices of these papers.

The school will be conducted under practically the same plan as the one two years ago and will be under the supervision of Miss Jessie M. Booth, director and general manager of the Home-makers' Schools of Chicago. The actual work of supervising the school will be in the hands of Miss Mary Dank.

Miss Dank is a graduate of Columbia University, is an experienced dietitian and will do some of the lecturing and demonstrate table service, food garnishing and party planning. She will have the assistance of another food expert during the school. Miss Booth, who arranged for the school to be held here under the auspices of The Gazette and The Republican is a graduate of Ripon College and Stout Institute and is a post-graduate student of Wisconsin and Northwestern Universities.

In addition to the regular school, which is a large attraction for housewives and the general public, many features have been arranged for the four days. Xenia merchants and business men have co-operated with The Gazette and The Republican in making the school a success and have given their time and merchandise for that period.

The large stage of the McKinley auditorium lends itself with easy adaptability for the school. The seating capacity of the auditorium is thought to insure comfortable room for the daily crowds.

Additional plans for the school will be announced from day to day.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

The Salaries and wages analysis should be divided for detailed analysis.

Approved systems of accounting for retail stores divide the important account of salaries and wages. As this item of expense is the largest and is usually more than equal to the sum of all other expenses, it is important that it be carefully watched. Savings can be made only if waste is definitely located.

The division is made according to the duties of the employees. Selling which cares for the wages of the sales force, is the largest division. The other divisions usually found are Delivery, Buying, Management and Office. Small concerns group these, while large stores find it advantageous to make still further divisions.

PARENT - TEACHER FEDERATION PLANS ONE-DAY DRIVE FOR MONEY FOR YEAR'S WORK

"One thousand dollars in one day" is the slogan adopted by the several hundred members of the Federated Parent-Teacher Associations of the city, in a united effort to raise that amount in a drive throughout the city, Tuesday, September 30.

In order to carry out the large program of work for the coming year, which deals mainly with the proper care of the children in the schools, the women associated in the Parent-Teacher organizations have planned the drive and are pledging their best efforts to secure the amount planned on.

A systematic program for the drive has been outlined by the officers of the Federation. Every penny taken in by the organization will be used to further the work among children in the city, members declare.

The work of feeding and clothing the children of the Opportunity School has been turned over entirely to the Parent-Teacher Associations of the city. The school board furnishes the school building, heat, light, teachers and equipment but the food for the children, one meal a day, together with warm and proper clothing, has been left in the hands of the P.T. A.

Forty-two children have been enrolled in the Opportunity School this year, who are fed daily by the P.T. A. Members. In addition, ten children of the McKinley School and four from Central grades are also fed and cared for through the association.

The average cost of feeding the children of the Opportunity School is about fifty dollars a week, according to officers of the Parent-Teacher Association. The amount has reached over sixty dollars and again as low as forty-five dollars but funds for the average cost must be in the hands of the association.

The co-operation of the clubs, societies, lodges, charitable organizations, and churches has been enlisted by the Federation in the drive. The full response of the public is being appealed to by the organization.

Mrs. Edward Ellsberry, who with Mr. Ellsberry and their family left about two weeks ago for Florida, is seriously ill, according to word received here. The Ellsberry family is now in Tampa.

Constitution Week
Ellis Springs, O., Sept. 23.—Constitution Week was observed at An-tioc College last week by lectures upon the constitution delivered at the student assembly periods by members of the faculty.

Monday Dean Philip C. Nash, described some of the difficulties encountered in drawing up the Constitution, while on Thursday, Charles W.
Putnam, instructor in social science, spoke of the lack of unity among the thirteen states that had to be overcome before any form of central government could be established, and also of the lack of unity in the world, especially in Europe today, remarking that there was more unity of thought in the United States at present than in any other territory of equal size.
This, he said, comes, however, at the cost of some individuality of thinking among our citizenship. Mr. Putnam is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, and of the National Bar Association, which is at the head of the nation-wide observance of Constitution Week.

this wearer of the green in speaking of the revolution necessary to obtain for Ireland its present status.

Autumn Knocking
AT FRONT DOOR AS WINTER CREEPS ON

Autumn officially opened Tuesday, at 2:53 in the morning and summer passed into oblivion.

Promptly at that moment the sun dipped over the equator southward and days will be shorter than nights, until finally the "shortest day" is reached, near Christmas.

The southward swing of the sun will carry it to the edge of an imaginary line called the south temperate zone, at which time winter will set in.

This is not what actually happens, however, as the sun does not move, but the earth tips over in its annual circuit around Old Sol, and the sun's rays hit the earth at a different angle.

September, October, and November are popularly classified as the three months that comprise Autumn, although officially, little of September is included while most of December is taken in.

NEW ORDINANCE TO GOVERN TRAFFIC TO BE READ THURSDAY

Discussion at the next meeting of the City Commission Thursday night at City Hall will consist mainly of the new "skeleton" traffic ordinance which is being drawn up by City Solicitor Finney. Different phases of the traffic question will probably be discussed but no definite action with reference to acceptance or rejection of model ordinance will be taken by the commission at this meeting.

The ordinance, according to Mr. Finney, will be modeled to conform with the state traffic laws, as well as different local traffic ordinances now in existence date back twenty years or more and are now entirely out of date. They were passed by the old form of city government, the city council, when the automobile had just come into existence.

The new ordinance, conforming with the state laws in the main, will however touch the local traffic situation in several points.

RADIANTFIRE

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

The Luxury of Love

by VIOLET DARE

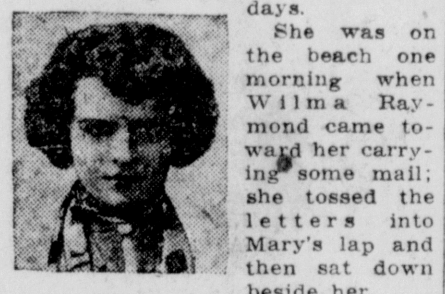

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "Love or Fame?" ETC.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY HAYWARD, though she is in love with BRUCE GILLIAN, has married SIR NIGEL CAVENDISH, during a misunderstanding with Bruce. She has told Nigel that she does not love him, but he has urged that she marry him anyway, and his suit is furthered by an old friend of Mary's, VERA ATWOOD, who realizes that although Mary is a famous beauty, her poverty is going to make her life increasingly difficult. Mary tells Nigel that she loves Gillian, and asked him to let her have their marriage annulled. He refuses, but finally agrees to do so if she will remain with him for six months.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT
XXX—OUT OF THE PAST

MARY'S letter to Boyd Mowbray was the first of many, and the letters from London came to be one of the high lights of her brilliant, empty days.

She was on the beach one morning when Wilma Raymond came toward her carrying some mail; she tossed the letter into Mary's lap and then sat down beside her.

"I see that you have a letter from Boyd Mowbray," her name's on the back of the envelope," she commented. "Is she a friend of yours?"

"Yes, one of the dearest friends I have," Mary answered quietly.

"Oh, really? I shouldn't think Nigel would care for that. He's broadminded, of course, but still—Mrs. Mowbray is so very delectable—"

"She's the most wonderful woman I've ever known, and I can't listen if you're going to say anything against her," Mary interrupted.

"Oh my dear, don't fly off that way. Really, I was only saying what everyone knows is true. Why, not so long ago her name was in every paper one picked up."

Mary rose and walked away. Yet curiously enough, in her mail was a letter from Vera Atwood, and Vera chose to talk on the same subject.

"You mentioned in your last letter that you had met a Mrs. Boyd Mowbray," she wrote. "I haven't seen her in years, but I knew her before her trouble, and I'm glad you've met her. She is a remarkable person. If ever public opinion crucified a woman she was the one. I should think she would be embittered toward the whole world."

"You probably don't remember her story; I think you were too young to know much about it when it happened. She was the victim of circumstantial evidence, did nothing wrong, yet seemed to be guilty. I knew her because she was a great friend of my eldest sister's, and knew all the facts. Her husband, who was much older than she, was a drunkard; he married her for her money, and then treated her shamefully. But she was very brave; her baby girl meant everything to her, and she never complained, even to her closest friends. She had been a great belle, and was much in the public eye because of her husband's political aspirations—which never came to anything—so when the crash came it attracted a good deal of attention."

"A young man who had been a friend of hers and her family's got into serious trouble, and she went to his assistance, impulsively, thinking nothing of herself. I won't go into details; it's enough to say that her husband divorced her as a result, and took the baby away from her, saying that she was not a fit person to bring it up. She had done nothing, but could not prove it. And people believed the worst."

"The Incessant Hours."

"Her heart was broken; the baby was the only thing in the world for her, and she had lost it. I recall going with her when she was allowed to see it one afternoon three years later; the little thing was just four then, and didn't remember Boyd. Finally Boyd said to her 'Don't you remember Jimmah?' Jimmah was a doll they'd played with together. And the little thing laughed and said 'Yes. Were you the lady who gave her to me?' And so they got acquainted—For half an hour, under the eyes of a hatchet-faced nurse who took the youngster away the minute the time was up!"

"A year or so ago I heard that Boyd was trying to get the child back again; it would be grown up by now. I am glad that you know her; will you give her my love, and ask her to let me know when she comes to the States again?"

Mary dried her eyes as she finished reading the letter. So that was Boyd Mowbray's story. What suffering, to have her child growing up in the care of others, not even remembering her! And what a battle she must have fought, to be able to attain such serenity, and be so sure that there was a God who cared for His children, and ordered their lives for happiness.

Mary felt like a captive in golden chains.

Impulsively Mary addressed an envelope to her, tucked Vera's letter into it, scribbled a few lines across the back of the letter and sealed the envelope.

"She'll know," now that I know what a struggle she has made, and what a wonderful woman she is," she told herself. "Why, she was happy when I met her, happy even after that. I've never known anyone else who seemed so sure of happiness—it was like a wonderful thing that she couldn't lose. I wonder if people always have to pay such a price for getting their lives settled down into shape. Oh if mine ever comes out right—I mean when it does—how happy I'll be."

She went back to the hotel that night with a new resolve in her heart. She would make more of an effort to do all she could to live up to her part of the contract she and Nigel had made. She wasn't playing fair, wasn't being as big a woman as she ought to be, by paying her debt to him in counterfeit coin. After all, there was a debt; she had married him, had accepted his name—it was hard to remember that, when all her heart cried out so to Bruce.

Yet when she met Nigel in their living room, she could not put her new resolve into practice. For Nigel was entertaining Wilma and her husband, rather boisterously.

He came to her room later, when he was dressed for dinner. Looking at him, she felt that she was nothing but a figurehead in his life, that she could not possibly matter to him, save as a prop for his pride. He liked being married to such a beautiful woman—that was enough for him!
